Cardinal

CAROLINE HIGH SCHOOL

Bowling Green, Virginia

This year in our Cardinal, we are introducing a concept new to Caroline — that of a theme, a theme this year of ACHIEVEMENT.

Achievement means many things; it may be accomplished by group or individual effort, and its rewards vary from knowledge to physical wealth. It is a combination of desire and planning, work and hope, result and pride. The word can be applied to a variety of things, but all must originate from goals of the individual mind. An idea is born in the mind; acquires its soul from the hope and struggle put forth to initiate it; and forms its body into a result. The joy of having is sweetened by the labor of attaining. A group of minds can work together to conceive thoughts and nuture them to fulfillment. Either alone or with many, the pride of accomplishment fills the restless heart with satisfaction, the searching mind with knowledge, and the developing soul with maturity.

Achievement may take one of several forms . . . . .

. . . SCHOLASTIC . . .

The devoted teacher is the workman who guides the growth of his pupil. In scholastic fields, our school is a source of current knowledge, as in the areas of government and the sciences. To the enlightened mind, there are many sources of enlightenment. Knowledge is presented to us in various forms, such as an understanding of the structures of democracy, socialism, communism, or a working knowledge of cell . . . structure, atoms, and laws of gravity. It is also a source of historical fact. Appreciating the achievements of our forebears can broaden our contemporary concepts of foreign relations. The abstract forms of reasoning come harder to most of us, however they are a necessary phase in the orb of machinery and computers in which we live.

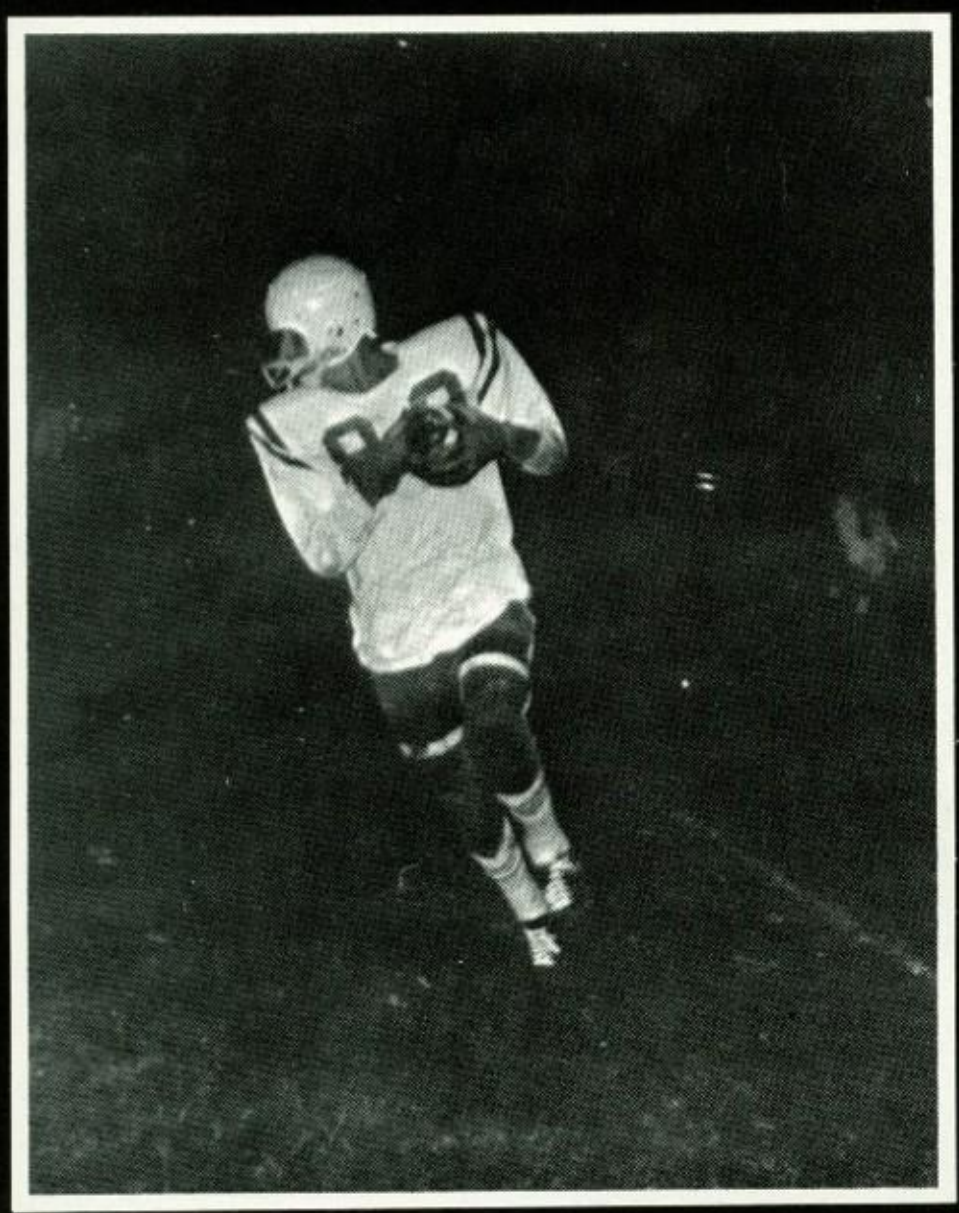
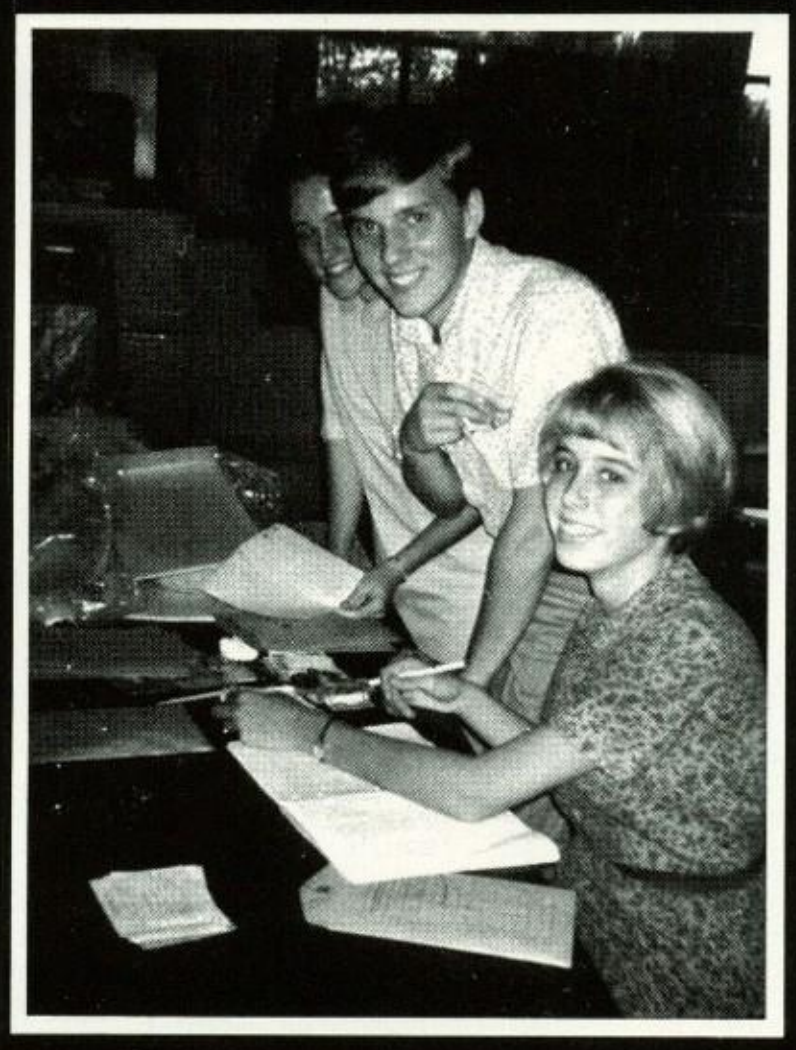
PHYSICAL . . .



The world is not entirely devoted to mental ability. Physical health and bodily soundness have their places in our complicated world of cars and office jobs, as does the ability to work with a team. They are important attributes of a well rounded person. Part of your formal education, then, is devoted to athletic talents, their development, and the accompanying benefits, such as good sportsmanship, good personal hygeine habits, and a general sound health. The expression of feeling, the outlet of energy, the freedom of movement all contribute to make physical achievement enjoyable and worthwhile.

. . . SOCIAL . . .

Perhaps the most important phase of education, as far as preparation for a world of people, is the accomplishment of social and mental poise. Working with contemporaries or older advisors or guiding younger minds are steps in the development of this poise. Organized presentation of viewpoints in which we use our freedom of expression, competition in classes and popularity, friendliness among classes and social groups, inovations in style, and education, and interperson relationships, all contribute to an active harmony in a busy and exciting world of people, people, people!!



DEDICATION

He has made many contributions to our scholastic programs and has been a source of light to the darkness of ignorance. His endless efforts to see the student body achieve its objective in knowledge and mental maturity have contributed towards our goal and helped mold us into the young people we should be. His interest and guidance have terrified many with their frankness, but the benefits of them are felt by all. In areas outside of scholastic achievement, his advice, though not always immediately appreciated, has proven sound and reliable. To show our appreciation, this year's Cardinal is fondly dedicated to one of our most devoted teachers,

GIRLS' STATE

During the week of July 18-24, 1967, the American Legion Auxiliary sponsored its 21st and largest annual Virginia Girls' State at Radford College. Each high school in Virginia, depending upon size, selected one or two girls from the rising Senior class to attend this citizenship workshop. The purpose of Girls' State, as stated by the American Legion, is "to give young women from all areas the practical experience in citizenship and government which can be secured in no other way." Truly, every girl who attended Girls' State knows that this purpose was accomplished.

After all the girls had arrived, they were divided into cities. It was the girls' responsibility to run their own city government. City officials, such as the mayor and the council, Senators, representatives, Supreme Court Justices, and representatives to party conventions were elected at the city meetings. In addition to electing officials who were obligated to carry out their duties to the best of their ability, city ordinances and charters also had to be written.

At city meetings, Congressional meetings, and party caucuses we were fortunate to have state officials experienced in these phases of government operation to direct us. Government officials also presented speeches to us on different phases of government operation at assemblies.

Other activities of the week included a talent show, band and chorus rehearsals, a band and concert, a mock trial, political rallies, elections, and campaigns. That week we were also fortunate to hear the famed folk singer Jash Miller in concert.

At the end of the week, the mayor of the city having the most points, based upon marching formation, attitude on the athletic field, attention in assemblies, promptness in arriving for meals and events, quietness in the dormitories, co-operation, helpfulness, room inspection, turning in reports on time, and following instructions, was presented a plaque naming her city "Model City". Also, two outstanding girls were chosen to attend Girls' Nation, a nationwide Girls' State.

As most of the other girls, I, too, left Girls' State with a sore throat, tired feet, a heart filled with the joy of new friendship, and a greater awareness of all that I have to be thankful for. I had never realized before just how lucky we all are to live in a free and democratic nation! I am sure, however, that my feelings as well as those of all the girls who have ever attended Girls' State can be best expressed by the Virginia Girls' State Creed, one which each of us has made her own. Quote Miss Donna Blevins, Governor of Girls' State 1967--

"Girls' State is the foundation of America
Girls' State is bricks for citizenship
Girls' State is the structure of Democracy!"

BOYS' STATE

Each year, American Legions all over the United States sponsor a Boys' State in every state. The purpose of Boys' State is to acquaint and teach the basic principles of self-government to high school students. This event each year has helped many students to know and appreciate how their country has been successfully and democratically governed.

This year, Boys' State was held at the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Virginia. The beautiful campus of one of America's oldest schools was very inspirational in our attitudes, and our interest toward learning. The College of William and Mary is very large, and covers a major portion of Colonial Williamsburg. The vastness of the campus was realized by each of the 613 boys who attended when he had to walk everywhere he wanted and had to go.

Upon arriving at Boys' State, each boy was assigned to a city and a political party. Twelve dormitories on campus each housed a city with approximately 50 citizens. Boys' State was held from June 11 to June 16, six days of a lot of work and just as much fun. A day started at 5:30 A.M. and ended at 10:15 P.M., with thousands of events crammed in those few awake hours. Many prominent Congressmen, college officials, and State Legionaires addressed the assemblies held at one of the college fraternity halls each morning and afternoon. A little time was left, though, for meals and recreation, which were welcomed times of each day. Each evening, some type of entertainment was held and this was the relaxation period of the day.

Two political parties, the Nationalists and Federalists, functioned as national parties. They held a caucus, a party convention, and nominated men to run for state offices. A congress was established and representatives and senators were elected to hold Congressional sessions just as our state and national governments. After being established, business was carried on in the separate houses of Congress, but only business pretaining primarily to questions directly affecting Boys' State.

The most important event of Boys' State, though, was the inauguration of the Governor. The political parties presented their nominees to the Boys' State and an election was held. T. Mitchell Willey was elected Governor of Boys' State for 1967. The inauguration included the presentation of Governor Willey to Boys' State and speeches by the newly elected officials.

As Boys' State came to an end on June 17, it was the end of a very busy and exciting week. We all learned much from such a great experience and I am truly grateful to the American Legion and Caroline High School that I had the opportunity to be a part of such a wonderful event.

WE REMEMBER

We remember our Prom. It began Saturday evening at 8:00 o'clock. At least for others . . . but for us--it began 4 years ago. It came from car washes, bakesales, and soc hops . . . it came from dues . . . it came from the consession stand. It came from each junior's heart.

We remember the class meetings, The arguments . . . the regretted decisions . . . the committee meetings in which we discussed, chose, and adopted our common goal . . . the anticipation with which we fixed our eyes on April 22 . . . the beginnings of our planning and working.

We remember SAYONARA. The "lost" plans . . . Buddha in the corner . . . Mount Fuji . . . the long weeks we had to endure the snickers of the seniors . . . the looks on their faces that night.

We remember Gertrude. That night during the hail storm . . . the hardened plaster . . . the frequent facials . . . the shock of finding a nude mannikin in someone's bedroom . . . the afternoon we broke into a house to rescue her . . . the picture of quiet beauty she made that night.

We remember our columns. The fingers sore from cutting chicken wire . . . the dozens of pounds of hard plaster . . . our president trapped inside a tube of chicken wire . . . the sheets we confiscated and plastered . . . the dill pickles which got into the brownies . . . the day we "repaired" the columns . . . the crumpled newspaper . . . the plaster flying in friendly combat . . . the trip down Sparta's main road . . . the relief when they didn't fall down in the middle of the dance.

We remember the parachutes. The day the girls cut and dyed them . . . the purple hands . . . explaining them to the seniors at the pancake supper . . . the satisfaction when those beautiful lavender clouds lay on the grass drying. The soft billowing ceiling they made that night.

We remember the tunnel. Its constant change of shape, direction, and length . . . the painful ride from the sawmill . . . the questionable trig which worked any way . . . the looks we got when we carried it down Main Street . . . the feeling when the pieces finally went together to stay.

We remember the dry ice. The four trips to Fredericksburg with cold laps . . . the calls to every ice house in Richmond . . . the tuna fish cans we didn't need after all . . . Mrs. Gertrude Woolfolk combing the Mulberry Place dump . . . how the proportions shrank as the danger of suffocating the guests increased . . . the short life it had that night.

We remember the bird baths. The morning the seniors heard we asked for cornstarch and salt . . . the mess when we got them . . . the beautiful center pieces even though no one knew quite what they were doing.

We remember Thursday night. The confusion . . . the breathless moments when Mr. C. was WAY up there on that ladder . . . the non-fitting parachutes . . . the trip from Sparta on an open truck . . . the cold . . . the demolished columns . . . getting them up the south steps . . . getting a two hundred pound bird bath into the gym . . . the disillusionment with EVERYTHING when we finally did get home that night.

We remember Friday. The renewed hope of seventy-five people working toward the same goal . . . repairing the columns and realizing that things were at last looking up . . . the miles of crepe paper, acres of pomps, and yards of cellophane . . . setting up the tunnel . . . creating a throne . . . organizing the main attraction . . . papering the band stand . . . wall paper glue in everybody's hair and under their nails . . . the mock grand march when we thought it was all through . . . the pride of showing our creation to Mrs. K. . . . The disappointment when she did NOT faint.

We remember Satruday morning. The last minute touches . . . the lilacs . . . the ivy . . . the ecstatic clowning . . . picking up the corsages or receiving them . . . the feeling that our PARADISE could not be any more beautiful now that we had finally reached our goal . . . wondering if we could make it through the dance.

We remember the things we gave up along the way. The waterfall . . . the purple lights . . . the champagne spouting punch bowl . . . covering the gym with Reynolds wrap . . . the hundreds of little things which would have cost a little more. We could remember how it MIGHT have been, but we DO remember how it WAS.

We remember the climax of our years of work, that night. The seniors' faces . . . our King and Queen . . . the Prophets . . . the candle light . . . our dates . . . our handsome men and pretty ladies . . . the refreshments . . . our sillouette . . . memory books . . . Gertrude . . . centerpieces . . . columns . . . parachutes . . . the bandstand . . . everything . . . perfect.

We remember. We stood awed by our own creation. We walked silently from PARADISE, tears of pride clouding eyes that had seen the conception, growth, and birth of STRANGER IN PARADISE. And this is where it ended, this joy of creating. It came from many things--but mostly--it came from each junior's heart. We know. We remember our Prom.

YEARBOOK STAFF

This year's staff has been held together by a lot of arguing and debating, if arguing can be said to take the form of a bond. The editor and the photographic editor differed in opinion, the writer and the editor, and the writer and the photographic editor. But they all came out friends, and here is the yearbook. The staff took the additional pages, the writing, the spot designs, and the pictures, and worked long and hard, and incorporated them into a yearbook. Our staff had been "plagued" with many things, snow which messed up deadlines, a writer who couldn't think, a very crabby editor, a very calm sponsor, lost pages, lost proportion rules, lost pencils, and lost anything which wasn't specifically glued to the editors hand, and some that were. This year's staff has had more fun than any staff preceding them and undoubtedly more difficulty in communicating ideas, convincing the editor, and getting pages done. And through some wonder they produced a yearbook.

The SCA Council is made of homeroom representatives and committee chairmen, with a no-nonsense sponsor. The committees take care of various departments around the school, such as building and grounds, and bulletin boards. Those on the Welfare committee organize our Christmas drive. The recreation committee plans for our SCA prom, recruiting the help of all council members needed. These people all work together to keep the machinery of our student government operating smoothly. The representatives from the homerooms are the direct link between the SCA government and the individual student. Thus, on the small scale of a school, our students learn of the principles of democracy.

Getting ready for the prom is no easy job.

Tall bulletin boards are good for your muscles.

Mrs. Brittle

What is a newspaper staff? This one is a lot of fun and a little bit of confusion. It is writing for a deadline, editing, rewriting, occasional censoring, typing, spacing, retyping, running off pages, drawing, more running off, finding jokes, more running off, stacking, stapling, assigning rooms, selling, turning in money, counting, keeping records with Mrs. Duke, and knowing that people criticize the paper because of their ignorance of what goes into it. This staff is the working together of young people interested in writing, in art, in publishing, and some, just interested. It is a spring picnic. It's a lot of fun, hard work, and a little confusion.

TALON STAFF

SPANISH CLUB

This is our Spanish Club. We have a president, and other officers, just as any other club of this sort. We have an activities committee, a bulletin board committee, and a group of members. However, we don't like to think we are just an ordinary club, but a group of Spanish students who do worthwhile things like work for money to buy tapes and supplies for the Spanish department. That's Mr. Archer, our crazy sponsor. He's fun in class, a good teacher, fun in the club, especially on our picnic, and we love him. This is our Spanish Club, but we aren't just an ordinary club. We are a group of Spanish students doing worthwhile things.

"THE WHAT"

The WHAT is a new phase of our literary program, which will hopefully be continued for many years. It was kind of slow getting started, with getting office approval, picking the staff, electing officers, and gathering material all being necessary to the editing of a magazine. The first couple of meetings lacked something of the necessary organization, but we did get started. Then followed typing, judging, debating, sketching, proof-reading, selling and all the nasty little necessities that popped up. But in the long run, it was a worthy endeavor.

BAND

This year our band has grown in number and experience. Under the direction of Mr. Thomas Garber they have learned many things. The members have enjoyed their many activities such as performing at the Christmas program and entertaining at all of the home football games plus several of the away games. Also at the Tappahannock game, the band presented a half time show "Musical Hits of the Year." The band worked with the cheerleaders, too, at the pep rallies and during their pom pom routines. As viewers and listeners, we all can appreciate their hard work.

CHORUS

This year our chorus is under the direction of Mr. Tom Garber. He has helped us in many ways and we consider him a very fine director.

The chorus had several performances around Christmas. We sang for the Ruritan Club, the school Christmas program, and gave a concert of our own (along with the band) - -"Christmas Festival".

Several of the girls were asked to attend All-State Choir and chorus at R.P.I. in February. There was much hard work but we all enjoyed every minute of it.

The girls Ensemble sang for various programs at Christmas. We were made up of those girls interested in singing and willing to give a little extra time. With first soprano, second soprano, and alto voices, we presented our message in song.

ENSEMBLE

ATHLETICS

This year we had two squads, the Varsity squad and the Junior Varsity squad. The Varsity squad, consisting of six girls, cheered for all football games, girl's basketball games, and boy's varsity basketball games. The Junior Varsity squad, having five girls on their squad, cheered with the Varsity squad at all home football games and cheered for the junior varsity boys in basketball.

Before school started, both squads attended National Cheerleaders Association Camp. Half of the girls attended camp at Virginia Beach and the other half attended the camp at Smith Mt. Lake. At camp, we learned new cheers, chants, pom pom routines, and gymnastics. Also, we had lectures on pep rallies, stunts, when to and when not to cheer, and crowd participation. After camp we held summer practices. Upon entering school, we had two practices a week on Tuesday and Thursday.

Mrs. Noell, as our sponsor, helped us select and purchase the parts of our new uniforms, gave us helpful suggestions on our cheers and advice on our cheering. The band also gave us much cooperation and assistance in our pom pom routine, cheers, and side line chants at football games.

During the year, we tried to get the student body enthused over the games by pep rallies, banners in the halls, rooms and boy's locker room, and, for important games, we either gave or sold signs for the students to wear.

NOW WHAT?

Now that you have graduated you must answer the inevitable question—"now what?" For all of you it means the continuation of studies in one way or another, because learning must and will continue through our lives.

In the years to come you may have no more report cards or examinations, but everything you do will be judged realistically. Your preparation for every goal will be carefully watched, thoughtfully evaluated.

Your courses have given you the tools for thought and judgment. They will serve you well, whatever the future has in store for you.

Here at American Viscose we owe much of our progress to the adoption of new ideas, new improved methods and fresh approaches brought to us by young people like yourselves who never learned to stop learning.

And now the end has come. We have achieved that which we came to achieve. We have learned Newton's laws and Mrs. Burruss's formulas. We have mastered typing and Spanish and bookkeeping; We have experienced scholastic pride and disappointment; And ultimately we have matured. We have developed physically. Our bodies have strengthened, our health blossomed. We have acquired a year's knowledge of social poise; We have gained wisdom and discretion; but ultimately we have matured. The end has come, the end of a year of achievement.
